Luenendonk 2015:
Bilfinger extends leading position in ranking of industrial services providers

The engineering and services group Bilfinger retained its position as the largest provider of industrial services in Germany once again last year, according to the current Luenendonk list. Output volume on the German market that is relevant for the ranking was €815 million and the gap to the nearest competitor was expanded.

In the industrial services business, Bilfinger generated an output volume of more than €3.7 billion last year, nearly 80 percent of which was accounted for by international markets. The Group thus had by far the highest share of international business of any German provider in the industry. The company's most important international markets in this segment were in European countries neighboring Germany and in the United States of America.

The annual Luenendonk study on the leading industrial services companies in Germany is an important market barometer for this economic sector.
